A-Forum script is written for web sites operating under Microsoft Internet Information Server (MS IIS) for Windows NT or Microsoft Personal Web Server (MS PWS) for Windows 95/98. It supports nested hierarchical structure of messages received from users. Messages are placed on the server and retrieved by user request with an option of deleting messages by local or remote server administrator. It automatically generates pages and forms in HTML format, sends them to users, receives information entered by users from the browser and stores those data on the server for further retrieval.
