Frame branding is a great way to keep your visitors inside your domain. This CGI Script gives you control when your visitors follows a link on your page. The link they follow opens in the same window but in a frame format, with the top frame belonging to you. Sure, this can be done with simple HTML, but then you have to create one main and one top frame for every link you have, which will start adding up fast. With this Frame Branding Script you will only need one CGI file which will brand all your links.
