The CJ Web2Mail is a very simple web page form to your email inbox script. The script has been improved considerably from the previous version. V3.0 includes multipart email sending which basically means that the script sends both HTML and text emails to you (and for the auto responder). This way the reciever of the email can leave it up to their mail client to choose which one to display: Outlook Express for example, uses HTML (but you can have this turned off, therefore sending both makes sure you get it). The script comes with full data validation and a thank you page which can be customised fully. If you already have a web2mail script, overwrite it now!
