Create your own blob site! Blogs are the fastest growing method of posting data on the Internet today. It is hard to hear a news story of any significance that does not reference a blog in one fashion or another. csBlog is a powerful blog (web log/journal) management tool. Use the script to create ongoing news items or journal entries. csBlog allows you to quickly and easily manage entries into your website with ease. Using only a web browser you can update your web long, adding story after story, journal entry after journal entry! You can even upload a photo in the web log entry to help get the story across, or to show a picture of the author.
