csDynamic is designed to rotate content through your site automatically - dynamically. Webmasters spend a lot of time updating content on their pages to make things look fresh and to keep information current. csDynamic allows you to do this automatically. Simply set the interval of rotation and add the content. The script will automatically change the content on your site for you. csDynamic can be used to update any type of content in any format. You can even add JS or SSI calls to the script so you can use other CGI scripts in conjunction with csDynamic. For example, you can use csNewsPro and call various articles in as content within csNewsPro. All of our scripts can be used in conjunction with csDynamic.
