This software helps start-ups and established companies add a new channel of communication with their customers via web-based video consultations. The script is easy to use by both employees and customers because it doesn't require any complicated downloads or installations, but rather just the everyday browser. The software can be integrated in your website along with any customizable modules you select: scheduling system to allow customers to make appointments with any of your employees; rating system so customers can rate and comment on your services; recording system to save & replay all video calls; e-payment module to set how you charge your customers – per minute or a flat fee, and how they pay you - via PayPal, credit/debit cards, etc; and many other personalized modules that make ConsultSis the best fit for your business needs
