Dplayer is a HTML5 video player that allows users to easily embed videos in any page, blog or site using the newest web standards. It mainly makes use of HTML, CSS and JS while featuring as less Adobe Flash as possible (just for fallback) to allow customization with a minimal effort. Browsers makers are still working on fully supporting the HTML5 video specification and the strength of Dplayer is that it currently works on major web browsers: Firefox, Safari, Google Chrome, Internet Explorer, Opera and is even compatible with Apple Iphone and Ipad. What you are dealing with here is a pure javascript driven HTML5 video experience. Flash is used only whenever there is no native H.264 support available. In such cases a minimalistic SWF which mimics an HTML5 video element as good as necessary is used..
