We all know how powerful WordPress is for managing content. From personal blog to company website, WordPress has proven itself to be the most engaging platform for creating and sharing content in recent years. Because we know that the line between information sharing and training is grey, we have developed a plugin that allows you to integrate your WordPress website with the Docebo Learning Management System. Thanks to this plug-in you will be able to: -Embed online courses on your WordPress website and assign training by using the WordPress dashboard -Access courses and training reports, plus control the whole ELearning project directly from the WordPress dashboard -Display courses assigned to logged-in users by using a WordPress widget -Import in Docebo your WordPress user database -Enable the Single Sign On between WordPress and Docebo
