Here is a brief excerpt from my website: "I have developed an extremely easy to use stock ticker, which has the following features: 1. Enable or disable, and if disabled display a message. 2. Easily manage all the stocks you would like to display. 3. Different "views". This means that you can either display a limited amount of information for each stock (Last Price and Change) or you can display a large amount of information. 4. Easily change various other features. Basically everything is customizable. Everything is managed within the config file, so it's really easy to change all the settings, even if you know nothing about PHP, or any programming language for that matter." Please check EasyQuote out, you won't regret it. For an extra $2.50 I can customize the script even further to your liking. Enjoy!
