Error Log viewer is a handy utility to pinpoint the cause of script errors. Don't you hate it when you try to install a program and keep getting those internal 500 errors? Or while developing a program you come across a server error? Now you can easily find out what is causing it. Utilizing this program will allow you to see the entries in your web servers error log in a readable and understandable format...even if you can not find or do not have access to your error log.
