IP2Currency™ Exchange Rate Web Service, automatically determines the origin country of your visitor, and transforms to the commonly used currency, and the currency symbol. If you own a web store selling gadgets globally, and would like to support multi-currencies feature, it would be fast and simple to handle those hassle works in order to convert the currency in real time. It helps to provide a more user friendly environment when your system shows your potential customers their commonly used currency even it is just their first visit to your website. All of this happens automatically with no intervention from the visitor required.
