This gallery includes 16 transitions, six of which are simulating the Ken Burns effect. These are working really smooth and were implemented using the new HTML5 canvas element. Each image can have none, one or more animated description windows. These windows can be animated to appear from different directions and you can set for each of them the transition duration, the transition delay and the final position. The description windows have full CSS support. The entire color theme and skin can be modified, five skins are included in the download file!
