Unilabplus introduces its core product I-mgmt as the base station for all of its modules. If you're in small or large business (or a department or division of a very large organization) and need and contact management software that works well for both your Microsoft Windows and Macintosh users and can be accessed from anywhere in the world, you need I-mgmt. This is the most used cross-platform group scheduling solution on the market. I-mgmt was designed to be VERY easy to use, affordable (cheap, even) and provide powerful online management for all of your contacts. I-mgmt has been setup to function either for a single company or at an enterprise level.
