IEzChat is a very easy cgi chat script to install. The chat script will create a data file which will hold the chat messages in. If you would like to keep a log, it will do so too! You can send private messages to specific users and view a users online drop down menu list when posting your message. This script is perfect because you can specify how many messages to display and also how many messages to keep in the log file. Show date & time of posting, a current time. Your users can even customize their chat colors by using basic html code. They can make their font blue and larger. If a user tries to add an image, they can't. It'll repost a message to that user that they can not put an image in.
