InstantForum.NET is an eloquent, robust, ultra high performance ASP.NET & SQL Server discussion forum designed to meet the needs of the most demanding online communities or internal collaboration environments. InstantForum.NET boasts the most comprehensive administrator control panel available within any of today's ASP.NET forum solutions. As you would expect InstantForum.NET offers unlimited customization support via our skinning model, HTML wrappers or master page templates. Language packs ensure every aspect of the forum including e-mail's and even the spell-checker dictionary can be localized to suite your needs. As all text is centralized modifying any email template or changing any text is very simple. A well designed object oriented code base, highly optimized database schema, strongly typed cached data objects & collections and a unique state management system ensures InstantForum.NET can scale to accommodate the most demanding high-traffic communities.
