Memberkit is a membership content management system for web sites. To use Memberkit, you do not need to be a programmer. In fact, it is designed for non-programmers to create professional sites easily. Memberkit accomplishes this using many visual tools and an "Applications" architecture. On Memberkit, every content type is an application. For example, profiles application keeps track of user details and forum applications makes it possible for users to discuss topics. Memberkit makes it possible to create your own custom site by saving you the hard work.
