Near-Time Flow is the breakthrough content and knowledge manager for individuals and groups. Flow enables you to author, gather, organize, share and publish the information you rely on - from documents and correspondences to web pages, images and files - in an intelligent and integrated manner. Flow incorporates a hypertext authoring system, web browser, RSS news and weblog reader, allowing most of your digital information needs to be met without leaving Flow. Flow perfectly suited for personal and group information management alike -- publicize your content through Flow's multiple publishing options (including HTML and RSS) or set up a Share-Space to collaborate with multiple Flow users.
