The OpenEMR community is dedicated to guarding OpenEMR's status as a free, open source software solution for medical practices. Its members are comprised of software developers, as well as physicians and others with extensive medical and billing knowledge, all with the common goal of making OpenEMR a superior alternative to its proprietary counterparts. The project's home is SourceForge, at <http://sourceforge.net/projects/openemr/>. There are additional project resources at <http://www.oemr.org/>, including a demonstration site.
