With RealTimeQuery your visitors can contact you while visiting your website. The program acts as a server on your PC not depending on external servers. RealTimeQuery tracks your visitors and shows their country, IP, the webpage the visitor is seeing, the operating system, the web browser, and the webpage from where the visitor accessed your site. The program presents a worldmap where you can see the number of visitors from each country. You can even view the worldmap in 3D. RealTimeQuery supports multiple operators, the calls can be redirected between operators. Operators can invite to others to the same chat or chat privately. The program runs on the background, accessible from the system tray, alerting with sound and a popup window when a visitor calls you. The implementation process in your website is easy, just few HTML code lines.
