RTF Generator lets you create your own RTF files on web-servers, without any applications except PHP. No additional PHP modules needed and the script is not system-dependent and works on all platforms. Using special mark-up language which is based on HTML, you will be able to describe all necessary formatting for your data. You will have total control over the final look of the RTF document, as the Generator supports almost all features you can find in MS Word when creating a document. With this tool you will be able to generate customized contracts, agreements, bills of sales using client provided information or information from database, including images. It can save huge amount of time on document preparation. The document is totally generated within a split second using the dynamic data.
