SendEmail is a lightweight, completely command line based, SMTP email program. If you have the need to send email from a command prompt this tool is perfect. It supports attachments, multiple To, CC, and Bcc recipients, SMTP AUTH, custom message headers, and many other features. It was designed to be used in bash scripts, Perl programs, and web sites, but it is also quite useful in many other contexts. SendEmail is written in Perl and is unique in that it requires NO SPECIAL MODULES. It has a straight forward interface, making it very easy to use.
