Site Capture is an easy-to-use utility that automatically creates a specialized type of frameset. It captures any page you specify -- and regardless of the url of that page, only the address of the frameset, a title you specify, and status bar information you enter, shows in the browser when a visitor sees the page. Especially useful if your pages are on a "free server" or a server with only an IP number -- but you want your referrer domain to show in the browser.
