Solupress News is a comprehensive online news publishing system. Use a rich, web interface to place news and events online easily, without the need for expensive web developers. Articles can have images, audio, and video uploaded with them. In addition, you can enable the social-bookmarking feature to allow visitors to share the website with their friends. You can customize the news website with your own logo, custom HTML, custom header and footer, background colors, text colors, link colors, change fonts, and embed videos. Many ways to stand out! The output is what you'd expect from a professional news website. The AutoActivation feature in Solupress automatically posts your articles online on the date you specify, so you can have your news website maintain itself while you're on vacation. In addition, a WAP interface allows mobile device users with Internet access to view news, scores, and events on their devices.
