Email	{value_email}

Prevent your visitors from browsing your website before they take a certain action, for example, verify their age. According to laws at almost any part of the world, sellers must take strict precaution to prevent selling certain products to minors. Splash Page can also be used to deliver a message or provide basic navigation instructions. Possible uses for a Splash page include restricting access to content that's not appropriate for a certain age group; getting your visitors to accept the Terms of your website; delivering a Welcome message, sometimes with a coupon code or other purchase incentive; offering initial navigation tips and/or providing links to stores for various countries/languages. The extension allows to create an effective and non-obtrusive Splash Page: it saves the data entered by guests and registered customers and makes sure each shopper will see the splash page not more than once. It also enables you to restrict access only to a specific part of your store.
