This Java applet offers delayed stock market quotes in a nice and configurable presentation. The applet can be embedded in a web site and is updated at frequent periods without the user having to refresh the screen. The applet is highly customizable, and can be created in all colors, sizes and stocks. The financial market data is transferred to the applet using client-pull connection over HTTP protocol. Along with the applet we provide PHP and ASP scripts that feeds the applet with data from Yahoo Financial section. The data connection works perfectly over any part of the Internet without the need to modify proxy servers or firewalls. The quotes applet is fully customizable and will work for indices, stocks, funds and trasury bonds. You can customize the symbols, alias to names, background colors, foreground colors, fonts and sizes.
