textconverter.cgi is a small cgi script which allows you to easily convert text files to html templates, whether they are stored on your desktop or your website. Every text file will be stored in its own html template. It will also create a index html file from which all templates are linked. so you just have to link to this index html from within your website. Ability to customize head code and title, also link, background, and font color for every generated html template.
