TextResize adapts both the text size and the line height of the text according to the size requested. TextResize can be set to allow a maximum number of text size increase/decrease, based on a custom size step. It also features a text reset button, that reverts the text to its initial size. TextResize is constructed on a parent jQuery selector (e. g. to an element ID, class, tag name) and it can be applied to all child elements, or to a selection of child elements. You can contain TextResize to a particular HTML element, or apply it to the whole page.
