xM-Classifieds is the latest product in the evolution of our core application, utilizing our extremely robust framework to provide an extension of the basic principles in digital service based ecommerce. While in the past our software provide recruitment advertisement services the xM-Classifieds solution has extended this to include autos, jobs, properties, classifieds and community based listings. These core products are broken into modules which also allows for the creation of product specific sites, such as an auto classifieds or real estate listings portal where required. The core platform brings all of these products together in one main portal where advertisers can reach the subscriber base, post classifieds advertisements, purchase credits, receive inquiries, notifications via SMS (anywhere in the world) and transact in real time on the site.
