| Address | {value_address} |
| Contact Person | {value_contact_person} |
| Mobile Number | {value_mobile_number} |
| Email | {value_email} |

This very versatile mailform can: send mails to different addresses - create autoresponder messages and carboncopies - find out from which country a mail was sent - validate correct completion - be adaptded to any language - be used for any number of websites... You can have a "contact" link on different pages of your website, and each link will lead to a different mailform - but it is the same mailform. Only when linked to from the customer service page it will automatically send the mail to customer service and when linked to from the sales departments page it will send the mail to the sales department. Depending on the link it can also display different preset subjects and messages, create different autoresponder messages, can display labels and error messages in different languages and also present itself in different looks. You can decide if you want users to be able to send attachments, you can also turn on a security captcha.
