FastAward is a Perl script that completely automates the task of giving out your own awards. It not only takes applications, but will weed out duplicates and has the option of e-mailing you alerting you of new applications. It also simplifies the task of awarding - press a button to delete the site, or to send off a standard E-mail to the winner of your award. It also keeps a log of everyone you've given your award out to complete with it's own search engine.
