Create and publish your own RSS newsfeeds with OrangeBox for Windows. Inside it's intuitive control panel are all the tools you need to rapidly produce custom RSS and Atom feeds. Built-in wizards reduce the amount of time it takes to set up a channel or add news to just seconds. The next-generation syndication techniques "podcasting" and "videocasting" -- which allow you to distribute audio and video files -- are fully supported, from one-click file attachment to built-in FTP uploading. RSS stands for Really Simple Syndication, and was designed to be a lightweight format for news distribution. OrangeBox for Windows reflects that simplicity. Rather than being bloated with features that confuse the producer and do not contribute to the effectiveness of a newsfeed, OrangeBox for Windows offers features that aid in creating professional, standards-based RSS newsfeeds.
