A prospect with questions is a much better bet than an indifferent prospect. Questions are a sign that they not only have some interest in your product but also that they need an assurance that the product can fulfil their needs. Encourage your Magento website visitors to interact with you and find out more about your product. Now you can do precisely that, with the Product Questions Magento module from aheadWorks Co. Visitors to your website can ask questions directly on the product page. The store administrator reviews the question and answers it. The question and answer appear together on the same page. This adds value to your Magento webstore, as the content is driven by customers, not just by you. Moreover, these Q&As (questions and answers) will keep the product page relatively fresh, serve as a magnet for search engine traffic and make it easier for other prospects to make a favourable decision about the product.
